

Yacht Lolalita: Turks and Caicos

Turks and Caicos is a world class diving destination and one of only four humpback whale hotspots where you can legally swim with the whales.

Captain Gio is a marine biologist who specializes in underwater acoustics. He is also a published National Geographic documentary filmmaker.

He is currently investigating the effect of music on dolphins, whales and other marine animals, using a state-of-the-art underwater loudspeaker that is kept onboard.

Guests are invited to experience the music and the whales underwater for themselves on charter with Lolalita, while the crew capture your once in a lifetime experience on film.

Sample itineraries:

Option 1: All about the whales

This itinerary is designed to maximize the amount of in-water time interacting with whales by remaining in the area around Grand Turk, Salt Cay and Big Sand Cay for the entire charter. This is where the majority of the whales can be found.

Guests would fly into Providenciales, then catch a small plane to Grand Turk where they would join the boat. Drop off would also be at Grand Turk.

As long as weather permitted, most of each day would be dedicated to watching whales and looking for opportunities to swim with them.

There would still also be opportunities to scuba dive the reefs around these islands.

Option 2 : Explore the islands

This itinerary involves sailing greater distances each day to explore and dive more of the Turks and Caicos Islands. There will still be opportunities to see and swim with whales on days 2,3 and 4.

There are many incredible beaches, dive sites along the way, with a mixture of developed and uninhabited islands.

Pick up and drop off would be in Providenciales, close to the main airport.
